In this tutorial, I'll explain the use of Keyboard Macros within AmigaVOX and the instructions on how to set one up. You'll also learn how to use standard Amiga keyboard shortcuts and how to expand or enhance these functions. You can set up keyboard macros for any AmigaVOX command you need, for example, AmigaVOX set voice, AmigaVOX record, or AmigaVOX set voice special command. These macros can be set to run a certain command in a specific voice as well as run a special effect. How To: 1. Click on the "keymacro" button on the toolbar of AmigaVOX to access your keyboard shortcuts. 2. Click on the "edit" tab to open the keymacro editor. 3. Click on the desired command to add a new macro to the list. 4. Enter the details you wish to use for the macro. 5. Click on "run" to test the macro. 6. Click on "save" to save the macro for use. 7. Double click on the macro to activate it. To add a special effect to a macro, click on the macro in the keymacro list and click on "add special effect" to the right of it. For example, click on the "voiceset" macro to add a voice special effect. You'll see it listed as "Voice special effect" when you activate it. To add a special effect to a macro, click on the macro in the keymacro list and click on "add special effect" to the right of it. For example, click on the "voiceset" macro to add a voice special effect. You'll see it listed as "Voice special effect" when you activate it. You can set a macro to run in any voice by clicking on the drop-down menu and selecting the desired voice. Click on "edit" to edit the voice and to add effects, mouse clicks or macros to the voice. You can set a macro to run in any voice by clicking on the drop-down menu and selecting the desired voice. Click on "edit" to edit the voice and to add effects, mouse clicks or macros to the voice.
